PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE
Mary Laufenberg, CGFM, CPA

I hope everybody has had a safe holiday while traveling to their various events. The weather has definitely cooperated with all our travelers.

Just a reminder that the Annual Tax Update at the Imperial Garden East is scheduled on January 22nd.

A confirmed future monthly luncheon is as follows: John Pohlmann from DNR speaking about plans, budget and funding regarding the Badger Ammunition Plant scheduled on April 23rd. Other tentative speakers are still being arranged for our February 26th and March 26th luncheon dates.

Stay tuned to our future newsletters. I am hoping that we can again dodge the ice and snow for these future continuing education dates.

The board is planning the spring Symposium. If you have any suggestions on topics of speaker recommendations, please send them.

In case you missed it: A chapter member was featured in a National Publication!
From the AGA National TOPICS electronic newsletter, November 24, 2014

Meet Your Fellow AGA Member
David Mellem, CGFM, CIA, CISA
Auditor, Office of the Inspector General
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Southern Wisconsin Chapter

Q: What do you think is the most important issue in government financial management, today?

A: I believe the most important issue in government financial management is public trust in financial information that is reliable, relevant and readily understandable. Busy people do not have time to dig into mountains of information. People who differ on issues sometimes pick only the data that seems to support their positions. Financial information that is clearly presented can help preclude misuse of that information. One of my accounting professors used to say that “anything that can be misunderstood will be misunderstood.” Independent auditors can help by presenting unbiased factual information in way that is useful and gets to the heart of issues.

Q: What AGA product, program or service do you find most useful?

A: I find up-to-date information on current issues via AGA publications, training opportunities and networking most useful.

Q: What’s the biggest challenge you’ve faced professionally and how did you overcome it?

A: One of the more unusual challenges was conducting audit exit meetings at an auditee about to lose its funding. Its director held a pair of sharp pointed scissors to my throat in a non-verbal attempt to intimidate me. I used tact and diplomacy to defuse the situation.

Q: Would you like to highlight anything from your AGA chapter? (Beneficial resource, interesting program, take-away, best practice, outstanding member/leader, etc.)

A: Our Southern Wisconsin Chapter endeavors to provide cost-effective continuing education on a variety of topics. It has a rich history of members, guest speakers, programs and conferences, and many networking opportunities. We have been blessed with some very dedicated officers and members.

Q: Do you have a professional ‘lesson-learned’ you would like to share?

A: Define your terms and do not assume. Many misunderstandings could be avoided if we agreed on what our terms meant and did not assume. One example is a state agency that routinely prepared not only final accounting reports, but also prepared later ‘final-final’ reports and even still later ‘final-final-final’ reports. The problem was that not everyone knew that final reports were not final, nor were final-final reports.

Q: What does AGA mean to you?

A: AGA is a great organization for meeting other like-minded professionals, developing organizational leadership experience, learning from the best and gaining recognition. I acquired a lifetime of learning and experiences from AGA.

Q: Why did you decide to earn the CGFM certification?

A: I decided to earn the CGFM certification because I could see from the start that this was going to be a significant certification for government financial management.
